Hey guys,

Can you please talk to your Public Affairs Directors (David Grey and Kelly Zito)?

I just got hammered because another OSC published a document to the public OSC.net without them being informed.

I have set it up so that only us three and our contractors can modify the website. I hope this can be relaxed soon but I had to make the deal that one person from each Region would control access.

Here is the email that I am sending my management:

An EPAosc.org website has been established to serve as a single location to be used by Regions 6, 8 and 9 for the public distribution of data related to the Gold King Mine Release. So far, Region 8 has used the website to distribute site photographs and important public documents such as Situation Reports and data updates. Starting August, 10, 2015, and in response to the public's need for information, an interactive mapping tool will be posted on this website that allows the public to obtain a common operating picture of the response. Regions 6, 8 and 9 have agreed to make the following information available in this mapping tool includes: standard base maps, the location of waterways, important site features such as the location of the release, imagery collected from the ASPECT aircraft, site photographs, sampling and monitoring locations, monitoring data and analytical results. Members of the National Emergency Response Data Team (one from each region) will be designated as the gatekeepers to manage the content on this website. These individuals may delegate their authorization to contractors and other technical personnel as conditions require. These three members of the Data Team are:

Eric Delgado, EPA Region 6

Martin McComb, EPA Region 8

Randy Nattis, EPA Region 9
